New Orleans is a very progressive District currently operating with a stable, broadly based Civil works program of about $590 million annually, with future growth anticipated. Visit the District's website at <http://www.mvn.usace.army.mil>

Permanent Change of Station (PCS) expenses will be paid. Relocation services under DoD National Relocation Program (DNRP) will be provided.

New Orleans, a city of colorful historical background, is also a major industrial center, the largest U.S. port in tonnage handled, and the center of an area rich in natural resources ranging from oil to seafood. The city's position between Lake Pontchartrain and the Mississippi River dictates a climate of moderate temperatures, high humidity and heavy rainfall. Living costs are moderate, although real estate prices are high. There are no local personal or corporate income taxes. The state corporate income tax rate is competitive with most other southern states, ranging from two to six percent. Total state and local sales taxes in the area are among the lowest of the nation's major cities. Among the city's amenities are six major universities, a number of colleges, opera, symphony, and jazz organizations, the historic French Quarter, Mardi Gras, Jazz Fest, museums, parks, sports facilities, a world-class zoo and aquarium, airports, rail terminals, and a unique cuisine. River boat gambling began operations in 1994. The District is housed in modern office buildings along the Mississippi River. The grounds offer a park-like environment with secure parking at no cost.
